

What fantastic weather we had at the beginning of November! OK!! I know it's boring to talk about the weather but it did influence a great deal of what I did at the time. In the first place the sheer beauty and colour of the countryside seduced me out of my workshop, away from the Chronicle desk and out and about on several longish walks.

Secondly the turn of the leaves reminded me that winter was not too far away and so logs need to be ordered. Since however we store our logs in the garage (which by now was in it's usual end of season 'tip') a major clear out was needed. I quite like this chore as I usually find long lost tools, half finished projects and all manner of 'come in handy,s'. This year was no exception as I came across some old floor boards which were just waiting to be turned into nest boxes. We had noticed that the number of Blue tits visiting the feeders last year was considerably down from previous years so perhaps a few new boxes would encourage more to take up residence locally

My bird book gives the internal dimensions as being around four inches square and seven to eight inches in height. It stresses that the entrance hole must be close to one inch and an eighth to prevent larger birds from 'moving in'. I managed to make three out of the boards I had found and will let you know whether I got any 'lodgers' in a future issue.

Finally, many thanks for all your contributions this month and on behalf of the entire Chronicle staff let me wish you all a very happy Christmas.

PARTY FOOD

It's that time of year, Christmas and New Year, when friends and family can call round expecting a bite to eat and a little drinkie!! Well maybe now is the time to start putting a few basics into the freezer, so when people come round either expected or unexpectedly you will always have something a bit different to give them. For instance don't throw any bread away, instead use the bread to make some canapés or 'finger food' cases.

Start by rolling out the slices of bread lightly with a rolling pin, then using a 3 inch cutter cut out as many cases as you can. Melt some butter and flavour with a little garlic, black pepper and dried herbs, brush each piece both sides with the flavoured butter and press them into tartlet tins. Bake in a moderately hot oven until just golden brown and crisp, being very careful not to over cook them. When they are cold, place into bags and pop into the freezer until required.

You can use any type of bread you like, white or brown sliced, pitta or nan breads or even French bread cut into thin circles. You can also use a flavoured olive oil to brush them with, one of my favourites is olive oil flavoured with chilli or cayenne pepper. Also if you are making pastry and have any left over don't throw it away make some pastry cases, just bake them blind in your tartlet tins and freeze.

When needed just de-frost and fill with anything your heart desires. Here are a couple of ideas, try pate (any type of pate will do) softened with a tablespoon of Sherry or better still Brandy which not only makes it easier to spread, but makes it taste wonderful too!! Or how about grated cheese mixed with finely chopped spring onion, a few chopped black olives and maybe a little chopped ham, fill the cases and place on a baking tray under a very hot grill until the cheese starts to bubble, but be careful not to burn the cases.

Another type of base to think of is Yorkshire pudding, yes! that's right Yorkshire pudding, cut into circles and spread with a little horseradish sauce then topped with a little thinly sliced roast beef, is a real treat to give your guests over Christmas, when all we seem to eat is turkey!! Here is a recipe you might like to try, this amount makes about 12-16 tartlets.

BOMBAY BASKETS to Gas Mark 7/425øF/220øC.

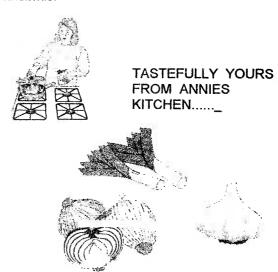

Pre-heat Oven

6oz cheese, grated.
4oz plain flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
3 teaspoons curry powder
4oz butter, cut into small pieces
2 egg yolks

Place the grated cheese in a mixing bowl and sieve in the flour, the baking powder and the curry powder. Rub the pieces of butter into the flour and cheese mixture with your fingers. Add the egg yolks and mix with a wooded spoon to a stiff dough.

Roll out to about inch thick and cut into 3 inch rounds, re-rolling the pastry as necessary. Very gently press into your greased tartlet tins and place into the fridge to 'rest' for about 15 minutes. Bake blind using small pieces of greaseproof paper and weight down with beans or rice, place in a hot oven for 10 minutes, then remove the paper and beans and put back into the oven for a further 5 minutes.

Leave to cool slightly, before gently easing out with your fingers. These baskets are feather-light and certainly mouth watering when filled with prawns (or cooked turkey cut into small chunks) and topped with mayonnaise mixed with a little lemon juice, crushed garlic and maybe even a touch of chilli sauce!! I do hope you enjoy them and that you have a great cooking Christmas.

My Journey to Africa.

I would like to write and say a big thank you to every body who contributed to the work project that I was involved in over the summer. I spent three months working as a volunteer with the charity Health Projects Abroad building health dispensaries in two remote villages in Tanzania.

As a group of ten volunteers in each village, most of the work we were doing involved building digging plastering and painting alongside the local villagers and tradesmen. I learnt a lot of new skills, but the most valuable aspect of the work for me was in meeting and talking to the locals. I made a lot of good friends in my time out there, and learnt about the lifestyle and customs of the local people.

I know from my work there, that these buildings will mean big changes for the villagers, and that they are very much appreciated and will enable the much needed health care to be available to everyone, especially the young, elderly, and pregnant and nursing mothers who are unable to walk vast distances into the towns. As a volunteer, I went out to Tanzania thinking how much I could give to the local communities, but came back having learnt so much more.

Alison Hewitt.

We worked really hard, spending the mornings working on the dispensary, and the by dividing our time in the afternoons by teaching at the schools, helping with the mother and baby units and fetching water from the well, which was a half mile hike each way. In the evenings we also found plenty to do. We found the local pub or Pom'bay house' as it is termed and never went back (the local drink was foul), there were Rice and Bean restaurants and plenty of Tea Houses around. We soon discovered what appeared to be a few mud houses scattered around the countryside was actually a thriving community. We also got to see local tribes dancing, drum festivals, lots of African wildlife (including elephants, hippos and lions), and best of all meet lots of interesting people.

I had an amazing time over the summer, and would like to say a big thank you to everybody who helped to make this possible for me. The health dispensaries buildings were both completed in October, and they will be equipped and operating by 1996.

'IVOR' TURNS THE OTHER CHEEK!

Once again this office has received anonymous correspondence believed to be from Aston Abbotts own phantom poet known only by his pseudonym, 'Ivor Cheek'. This latest offering has been published in the hope that someone out there will be able to identify the style.

So little is known about this shadowy figure that the entire Chronicle have gone to extreme lengths, often burning the midnight oil to analyse the contents of this latest ode. We feel we are getting close and aided by the latest technology (the trusty office ouija board) are confident this is a likeness.

If you have any information which might lead to the identification of the scoundrel, please contact the Chronicle office immediately.

> Now Ivor sat in relaxation brain had gone in meditation. Should he pen some foolish lines to entertain the village minds.

Should he write, just for the Chronicle more biting satire, diabolical. It's tricky now with laws of liable his non-de-plume must be reliable.

But then as usual reason fled
"I'll take a chance once more" he said.
For lets be honest, no ifs or buts half the village thinks he's nuts.

The other half with good sound reason think that what he writes is treason. So what to comment on today and what, that's harmful can we say?

Village worthy Clifford Price has made a splendid sacrifice.
Week after week the summer through he took his brush and paint set too

And with a set of steps of pine he set about the village sign People came from far and near to inspect his work, so clear

So carefully made, the final stroke that to the Government they wrote 'Here's a man of talents rare' who's work is done with greatest care.

They've offered him an invitation To fulfil his facination.
Now you'll see him nine to five painting signs on the M25.

ASTON ABBOTTS BONFIRE NIGHT SDECTACULAR

Bonfire Night, 5th November, falling on a weekend, the Aston Abbotts Bonfire and fireworks display (held on Sunday) was supported by one of the biggest crowds for many years; this despite some fierce competition from 'Mix 96.

The size of the crowd was in keeping with the bonfire which was the biggest ever with enough three piece suites, beds and wardrobes to start a respectable second-hand shop. Pallets supplied by Aylesbury Box Company; John Brancker thank you very much, and these with copious quantities of diesel by Bob Chapman (I am sure he has access to an oil well) created an inferno like bonfire.

This year the emphasis was very much on safety with the Bonfire and Fireworks area cordoned off for spectator safety. Under the leadership of 'Pyrotechnic whiz kid' Lawrence Hinds and his assistants Tony Hinds, John Whyte, Ray Wilkins, Barry White and Ady Dixon the team produced a spectacular display of fireworks. This year for the first time, professional show fireworks had been purchased and thanks must go to all those many people who contributed both financially and in the form of donated fireworks.

The Catherine Wheel display, as opposed to previous years was spectacular and credit must go to Lawrence for getting it right. It has to be said also that the magnificent and substantial structure for mounting the fireworks was handled by Ray Wilkins (guess who wrote this. Ed.), and Tony Hinds, supervised by John Whyte and this played a significant part in the success of the event.

Hot potato soup was served in large quantities by Juliet and the evening was rounded off by two of the biggest commercial fireworks available.

Guy Fawkes

P.S. Special note of thanks to Simon and Helen whose building extension project had to be temporarily suspended due to the huge wheelbarrow full of sand used for supporting the fireworks. I believe most of it has now been returned!

The entertainment provided in the Church last month by Trevor Howard, the Country and Western singer, raised £200.00. This money will be put towards the much needed electric winding system for the Church clock. Many thanks to all those who organised the evening and/or contributed by their attendance

For your diary

I was very pleased to hear that the 'Barber shop singers'

Doctors Orders are being booked for April 1996 Last time they came to Aston Abbotts we all had a wonderful evening. I will publish further details as soon as they are available.

FROM THE REGISTERS

MARRIAGE 28 Oct James Knight & Deborah Vincent at Aston

FUNERALS 7 Nov Peter Seed at Aston Abbotts
13 Nov Owen McManus at Aston Abbotts

RECTOR'S REPORT

There is something about the adverts that make them sound extremely phoney.

They are usually smallish holiday adverts - headed 'Christmas in Lapland' - Visit Father Christmas. Or 'Turkey & Tinsel' - holidays which can take place anytime after the beginning of November and include a 'make-believe' Christmas Day.

Surely, there is nothing make believe about Christmas. And when you read the small print, the holidays seem to have 'festive cheer' and perhaps a few Christmas Carols, but no reference to the reason why we celebrate Christmas.

The baby born in Bethlehem was God's free gift to a weary, self-interested world. Jesus was born into a world that changed little in the past two thousand years. Selfishness, cynicism, sleaze and corruption are nothing new. Then, as there were those who were interested in getting rich possible as quickly as possible, and with little concern about the effects that that exercise might have on anyone else. The more you look around and draw comparisons between then and now, the more depressing things seem to be. Maybe, after all, Mary and Joseph were just taking a 'turkey & tinsel' break from Nazareth to Bethlehem. Just a change in their normal mundane day-to-day life. A few days of escape from the routine grind of daily living.

But is wasn't like that at all. They went to Bethlehem because they were ordered to go for the census of Caesar Augustus. And the journey was not by Concorde nor by luxury coach. It was a hard journey mostly on foot through hostile country - a journey made much more difficult because of Mary's advanced pregnancy. There was no four star hotel at the end of the journey, simply a stable where the precious child was born.

That baby was God's answer to all the world's problems. Yet, as St. John reminds us: "He came to his own and his own received him not". The world will not change until we do receive him - until we break away from our petty concerns:-Our selfishness, our love of self-gratification, our get rich quick mentality and make room in our hearts for the change that only Jesus can bring.

BUCKS. COUNTY

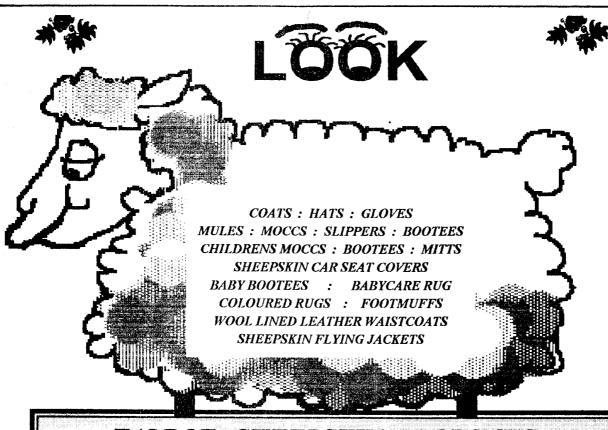

MUSEUM.

If you're at a loss as to where to take the children or visitors during the holiday, you might do worse than visit the newly refurbished and renamed Buckinghamshire County Museum in Church Street Aylesbury (next to St Marys Church).

Old and new buildings combine to create a County Museum of great diversity. Displays are innovative, touchable and based on eight county linked themes portraying the diverse natural and cultural heritage of Buckinghamshire.

he museum is open 10.00am - 5pm. Mondays to Saturdays and 2pm. to 5.00pm Sundays and Bank Holidays. Children are well encouraged and well catered for. As well as the exhibits there is a garden (bit cold this time of year), a shop and Cafe. In line with many other museums. entry is free although you will be encouraged to make a donation o£2.00 to help the museum.

Parish Council Unofficial notes of the meeting held on 20th October

New Clerk. Susan Taylor was appointed new Clerk.

Matters arising.

- Extension of the footpath in Wingrave Road, from New Zealand Cottages to the 30mph sign, had been requested and was being considered by Bucks County Council.
- New light on Green residents to be consulted about a new light in Grove corner.
- Traffic diversions councillors and Mr Higgs had met Thames Valley Police and decided we would offer to store diversion signs in the village so they could be put out quickly.

Training Day. Tom Manning, Gwen Kempster and Margaret Kent had found the training day for councillors useful. Susan Taylor to go on the clerks' training day on 4th November.

Recreation Ground. There had been a meeting of the Rec. subcommittee. It was looking into provision of a hard surface for use as tennis court/multi-sports.

- Agreed that Bill Richardson of AVDC should be asked for advice and that costings for plans (needed before any grant applications could be made) should be submitted again at next parish council meeting.
- · A new estimate requested (for mending the fence to children's play area) to extend it to exclude dogs.
- AVDC would be asked what was happening with promised new strip of land.
- · A skip for rubbish after Bonfire Night estimate for next meeting. Ditto broken window to shed.
- A grant of £100 for village fireworks agreed. Parish Council would place the order.

Highways & Road Safety Consultative Committee A Bucks County Council committee attended by Caroline Lane and Colin Higgs for the village. Report from last meeting.

- Video on alternatives to car transport shown to the parish council and public. This video can be borrowed from the Clerk. Stars Bill Oddie and lasts about 15 mins.
- Safety at Wingrave Crossroads: we had asked for a camera to be installed to identify drivers causing accidents or near misses; unlikely to be provided. Caroline Lane would contact Wingrave with Rowsham parish council to discuss joint approach in hopes of getting islands installed.

Withdrawal of subsidized rail passes. A letter would be sent to AVDC in protest.

Planning applications.

- Oak Farm House, garden shed approved by AVDC
- Bull & Butcher: change of use from agricultural to public house curtilage/car park had been approved subject to fencing and landscaping
- Longmoor Farm, conversion of barns to 5 dwellings opposed on various grounds, most important being too many units, causing noise and pollution from cars, and overcrowding, in the courtyard.
- · Horseshoe Cottage, works to willow tree, no comments from parish council

Accounts. Audit fee, £103; Clerk's training course, £6; grass cutting, £42; street light repair, £20; Eastern Electricity, £50. Eastern would be asked to reimburse the £20. £30 for Wingrave Guides.

Any Other Business.

- Aylesbury Vale South Sports Council Awards 1995: decided to nominate David Wheaton (football coach), Roy Malin (services to refereeing) and Cublington/Aston Abbotts Ladies Tennis Team.
- Dog mess bin: the emptying would have to be paid for from now on (it was free in the first year). This would cost £160 per year, a heavy expense for a small parish, but we need this service.
- The Countryside Management Project had offered oak trees and advice on orchard management.
